THE CZAR'S PROPOSAL

CORDIAL RESPONSE BY THE PRESIDENT.

Announces That He Gladly Welcomes the Russian Emperor's Offer to Reconvene the Powers.

Official correspondence on the subject of the proposed second peace conference was made public at the State Department yesterday. It includes the following unsigned memorandum handed to President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay by Baron Rosen, the Russian ambassador: "Russian Imperial Embassy, Washington, September 13, 1905.

"In view of the termination, with the cor dial co-operation of the President of the United States, of the war and of the conelusion of peace between Russia and Japan, his majesty the emperor, as initiator of the international peace conference of 1899, holds that a favorable moment has now come for the further development and for the sys-tematizing of the labors of that interna-tional conference. With this end in view and being assured in advance of the sympathy of President Roosevelt, who has al-ready last year pronounced himself in favor of such a project, his majesty desires to approach him with a proposal to the effect that the government of the United States take part in a new international conference, which could be called together at The Hague as soon as favorable replies could be secured from all the other states to which a similar proposal will be made. As the course of the late war has given rise to a number of quartiens which a similar proposal will be made. number of questions which are of the greatest importance and closely related to the acts of the first conference, the plentipoten-tiaries of Russia at the future meeting will lay before the conference a detailed pro-gram which could serve as a starting point for its deliberations."

The President's Response. Another part of the correspondence is a number of questions which are of the Russia presented to the President a memorandum, being a message from his majesty the tsar to the President, to the effect that in view of the termination. with the cordial co-operation of the President, of the war and of the conclusion of peace between Russia and Japan, his imperial majesty, as initiator of the in-ternational peace conference of 1899, deems the present a favorable moment for further developing and systematizing the labors of that conference, and that to this end, upon being assured in advance of the sympathy of the President, who last year pronounced himself in favor of such a project, his majesty desires to approach the President with a proposal to the effect that the government of the United States take part in a new international conference, which could be called to-gether at The Hague as soon as favorable replies may be obtained from all the other states to which a similar proposal is to be made.

"The Secretary of State, by direction of the President, has the honor to confirm to his excellency the ambassador of Russia the assurances which the President had the sincere pleasure to give to his excellency at the time of the presentation of the memorandum of September 13. The President's circulars to the powers to the acts of The Hague conference, which the late Secretary of State communicated to the several signatory states through the American envoys accredited thereto, dated, respectively, October 21 and December 16 of last year, have demonstrated the President's keen desire that upon a favorable occasion the labors of the first international peace conference might be supplemented and completed by an accord to be reached by a second conference

"The suggestion so put forth having been accepted in principle by the signatories, it only remained for the opportune moment to come for the powers to agree upon the place and time for their renewed assemblage in order to perfect the beneficial agreements of the first conference.

"The President most gladly welcomes the offer of his imperial majesty to again take upon himself the initiation of the steps requisite to convene a second international requisite to convene a second international peace conference, as the necessary sequence to the first conference, brought about through his majesty's efforts, and in view of the cordial responses to the President's suggestion of October, 1904, he doubts not that the project will meet with complete acceptation and that the result will be to bring the nations of the earth still more closely together in their common endeavor to advance the ends of peace.

"As respects the further statement of "As respects the further statement of his excellency's memorandum of September 13, that, as the late war has given rise to

"On the 13th of last month, at Sagamore Hill, his excellency the ambassador of 1904, touching the questions to come before a second conference for discussion, and the importance of completing the work of the first conference by ample exchange of views, and, it is to be hoped, full concord the broad questions specifically rele-

Commissioner Warner Proposes Stamp It Out of His Bureau.

Commissioner Warner of the pension bureau has started a crusade against the money-lending associations in his bureau, and declares that he will stamp them out of that branch of the government service. In pursuance of this resolve he has cited six officers of such associations now existing in the bureau to show cause why they should not be dismissed. He has given them three days in which to present their answers. The time will expire Monday, and he expects to give the offenders a hearing. The associations against which the ire of the commissioner is directed were organized for the benefit of clerks who at times need extra money. The rates of interest charged run from 5 to 10 per cent a month. The organization is similar to the "symposiums" which exist in more of the commission of the commi poslums" which exist in many of the gov-ernment departments and numerous private business concerns. The clerks organize themselves and lend money in sums to suit, taking orders on the salaries of the borrowers. Sometimes clerks become so hopelessly involved with the organizations that their salaries are mortgaged for that their salaries are mortgaged for months in advance.

The familiarity with crooks which Detective Horne pos-sesses has led to his being asked to be present to guard the people who will at-tend this fair.

SIMON HELLER'S RECORD

LONG PERIOD OF ACTIVE BUSI-NESS LIFE.

Has Been an Advertiser in The Star for More Than Fifty

Nearly half a century of active business life in Washington and the same length of time a reader of The Evening Star and an advertiser in its columns is the record of Mr. Simon Heller, one of the District's substantial merchants, whose establishment pleteness of its stock, and among its patrons were members of the family of President Millard Fillmore, besides other noted people who were of the ante-belium social set at the capital.

From Market space Mr. Heller moved to his present location, 720 7th street, where he began the business of dealer in hair braids and waves, the making of combings into switches, hair dyeing, cutting, sham-pooing and bleaching—in fact, every branch pertaining to the hair traffic, always keeping, it is said, the largest stock of hair goods in the city. That he has made a success of his business is evidenced by the retention of the patronage of those now in old age, who became customers of his establishment when they were emerging from

Talks of Business Career. Mr. Simon Heller, still vigorous and spry, talked interestingly about his business career to a Star reporter last night. "Yes," he said, "I have been a subscriber to, and an advertiser in, The Evening Star for nigh onto fifty years, and I have always found it to be a paying investment. The Star has become almost a part of my

Mr. Heller was born in Bretzfeld, Germany, in 1829, and came to this country when but fifteen years of age. He lived in Richmond, Va., a few years, and in 1856, just before coming to Washington, married Miss Sarah Wallach, a Baltimore belle.

"On August 17 next, if we are spared," said Mr. Heller, "we will celebrate our golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. Heller has been a member of B. B. French Lodge, F. A. A. M., and Lafayette Chapter, R.A.M., since 1860, and is the oldest member of Central Lodge, No.1, I.O.O.F. He recalls many interesting war-time reminiscences of Washington and says he was drafted for service in the army four times within two weeks, but was excused each time because of his physical condition at that time.

Early in his business career Mr. Heller adopted as his motto "fair and honorable dealings with all," and this, with his push and probity, formed the foundation of which he builded a successful commercial career.

CONVICTED AND SENTENCED. John W. Davis Sent to Penitentiary for

Term of Four Years. Detectives Baur, Parham and O'Brien of the local detective bureau have returned from Leesburg, Va., where they went as witnesses in the case of John W. Davis, whom they arrested here April 27 last on a charge of grand larceny. Late last evening the jury rendered a verdict of guilty and made the sentence in the case four years in the penitentiary.

Davis was a driver of a stage running from the railroad at Leesburg to Middleburg, Va., where he lived. Among other things he handled the packages forwarded by the Southern Express Company between the two points. One day inquiry was made at the office of the company for a package which contained $400 worth of silverware, the statement being made that it had been the statement being made that it had been shipped over the Southern Express Company. It could not be found. Davis had been away for a few days, and it was learned that he was in Washington. The local police were notified, and after the police here had legated the lost property. lice here had located the lost property where it had been sold they found and ar-rested Davis. He was turned over to the Leesburg authorities immediately.
His defense in the case was that he found the silverware on the road and did not know to whom it belonged.

Piers Near Long Bridge for Railway Elevation Completed.

The piers for the railway bridges which will span the street running from 14th street to Water street, near the Long bridge entrance, when the railway improvements at the foot of 14th street are completed have been finished, and the workmen are employed in filling in the deep excavations in which they were built. It is stated the construction of the new bridge will be started within the next few weeks and will be completed in a short time after the work on them is begun. Over these bridges all trains to and from the south will pass, and the grade crossing at the foot of 131/2 street will be done away with.

The new bridges, it is said, will be about fifteen feet above the street level and will give ample room for loaded wagons, which will largely use the new street, to pass under the bridges. The new structures will be of steel and will be supported by stone piers at each end and by two rows of steel columns in the center of the bridge. columns in the center of the bridge. It is understood that four tracks will be laid on the new bridges to accommodate the freight and passenger traffic and the car-shifting work that goes on at this point.

Collision Follows Runaway. Considerable excitement was caused late vesterday afternoon on Pennsylvania avenue northwest, near the corner of 6th street, when the horse attached to a wagon of the Industrial Home, and driven by George Lauterback of 119 Pennsylvania avenue became frightened and ran away. In front of 470 Pennsylvania avenue north-west it collided with a carriage owned by William Chase, colored, of 212½ Pennsyl-vania avenue, and the rear wheel of Chase's vehicle was broken. No one was injured, and the wagon to which the runaway was attached escaped damage.
